SOCIAL DOMAIN

The Social domain focuses on the ability to interact with others in relation to movement. It includes the development of social skills such as collaboration, fair play, leadership and communication, that help us enjoy participating and interacting effectively with others. These skills are learned and applied through movement as a person draws on their integrated physical, psychological, social and cognitive capabilities that support lifelong participation in movement and physical activity.

By developing proficiency across the elements within the Social domain, a person can learn to cooperate, negotiate and manage their own emotions and are more likely to enjoy participating and applying these skills to a range of movement and physical settings.
